

BIG LAGOON
Tsunami Hazard Map

This map shows the tsunami hazard zones in and around Big Lagoon. Areas shaded yellow are at risk of flooding during a tsunami, including Agate Beach, the coastline along Big Lagoon County Park, the Big Lagoon Campground, parts of Roundhouse Creek Rd. and low-lying areas along the shore of Big Lagoon. Areas shaded green are outside the tsunami hazard zone and considered safe, including Highway 101, Big Lagoon Elementary School, most of Sue-Meg State Park (formally known as Patrick's Point State Park), inland neighborhoods and higher ground east of the lagoon. If you are in a yellow hazard zone during a tsunami warning, move inland and uphill, on foot, toward the green safe areas.
